Stock Market Insights

Preparing Portfolios for a Less Predictable Federal Reserve

Joe Shearrer, CPFA® is Vice President and Wealth Advisor at Fervent Wealth Management.

I've been in this business long enough to see investors go through several versions of the Federal Reserve, from crisis fighter to inflation watchdog. What's different today isn't just policy; it's how much uncertainty surrounds it. For years, investors could count on the Federal Reserve to play a familiar role: steady, predictable, and largely insulated from politics.

When markets stumbled, the Fed stepped in. When inflation cooled, interest rates eventually followed. That relationship is beginning to change.

With inflation proving stubborn, government borrowing rising, and political pressure on the central bank growing louder, investors are adjusting to the idea of a new Fed. One that may be more divided internally and less independent than in the past. What stands out is not panic, but calm.

Despite these concerns, markets have remained relatively steady. Stocks continue to grind higher, bond yields have stabilized, and volatility has stayed muted. But beneath the surface, investors are preparing for a world where the Fed may no longer be the dependable backstop it once was.

Why the Fed Feels Different
The Federal Reserve has always faced criticism, but today's environment is different. Inflation has been harder to tame, interest rates are higher than many investors have experienced, and scrutiny of monetary policy is more public and more political.

Fed officials have also shown greater disagreement with public comments being less coordinated and policy signals shifting quickly. Markets don't just react to rate changes, they react to confidence. When the path forward feels less certain, investors plan for more outcomes, not just one.

Why Markets Haven't Panicked

So why hasn't the market reacted more sharply? Perspective plays a role. Corporate balance sheets remain solid, the economy has avoided recession, and investors remember far more disruptive periods in recent years.

Preparation matters too. Many investors now assume the Fed could be slower to act or less unified than in the past. Instead of waiting for trouble, they're adjusting portfolios in advance. Calm, in this case, doesn't mean confidence. It means caution.

How Investors Are Adjusting
One shift has less dependence on falling interest rates. Assets that benefited most from ultra-low rates, long-term bonds and certain growth stocks, are being reevaluated. Investors are leaning toward shorter-term bonds, floating-rate investments, and companies with strong cash flow.

There's also renewed focus on inflation protection. Real assets such as commodities, infrastructure, selective real estate, and inflation-protected bonds are regaining attention as hedges against policy uncertainty.

Diversification has become more important as well. While U.S. markets remain central, international stocks, global bonds, and alternative strategies are being used to reduce reliance on decisions made by a single central bank.

Many investors are also holding more cash. With yields meaningfully higher, cash provides flexibility, allowing investors to respond to market pullbacks, policy surprises, or opportunities without being forced to sell.

What This Means for Everyday Investors

A changing Fed doesn't automatically spell trouble for long-term investors, but it does challenge old assumptions. Relying on quick rate cuts or clear policy guidance could prove risky. Instead, diversified portfolios built to handle multiple outcomes may be better suited for the years ahead. This environment favors discipline over prediction.

Markets may appear calm, but investors are paying attention. The role of the Federal Reserve is evolving, and with it, the way portfolios are built. Rather than betting on what the Fed should do, investors are preparing for what it might do. Markets will continue to adapt, just as they always have. The Fed may change, but the fundamentals of long-term investing (diversification, patience, and discipline) remain the same.

Have a blessed week!

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT BLOCK GRANT (CDBG)

Project Title: Public Facilities and Improvements

Purpose: The Unified Government of Wyandotte County/ Kansas City, KS with HUD CDBG 2025-2026 funding, will undertake a variety of project to be completed with funds over a 1-year period. As funding is available, CDBG funds may be used for the following activities and/or projects: a) Strengthen code enforcement activities in the community. Funds will be utilized to pay overhead costs directly related to the enforcement of local codes in low-to-moderate-income areas in Kansas City, Kansas as well as locations that qualify under Spot Blight Removal. b) Technical Assistance activities will be sought to regularly gage citizen input on various housing, recreational, and economic development needs through monthly online, cellphone, and mail surveys. c) Funding may be utilized to conduct facade improvement on commercial buildings as well as renovate Parkwood Pool in Kansas City, Kansas.

Emergency home repair activities have been suspended as a CDBG activity as of October 2024 until further notice is provided to the public.

Location: City-Wide

HOME INVESTMENT PARTNERSHIP PROGRAMS (HOME)

Project Title: CHDO Activities - New Construction, Rehabilitation, Acquisition & Demolition

Purpose: The Unified Government of Wyandotte County and Kansas City, KS plans to use HOME HUD funds for New Construction and Rehabilitation. Funds to assist with Community Housing Development Organizations (CHDOs) set-aside New Construction for a number of newly constructed homes using scattered infill sites. LEGAL NOTICE throughout the year period (2025-2026). These activities will take place in urban, residential areas in Kansas City, KS. Work will be done to Energy Star requirements. The project activities may include ground disturbance. Acquisition is sometimes a project activity. As project sites are determined, site-specific Tier II review entries will be made. FY 2025-2026 funds of approximately $104,278 are available for CHDO HOME New Construction. Funds available for other types of HOME activities for FY 2025-2026 is approximately $590,911.

When demolition is necessary, new construction will be undertaken on the existing site within 12 months. d) Acquire vacant land only if we are able to commence construction of a new home within 12 months of acquisition of the land. e) Increase the stock of low-to-moderate income housing via manufactured housing opportunities. f) Convert upper levels of commercial property into low-income rental housing.

Site-specific reviews will be done for all the various activity locations. Location: City-Wide
