The Case Against Jumping into Hot Consumer Staples Stocks

Dr. Richard Baker, AIF®, is the CEO and executive wealth advisor at Fervent Wealth Management.

I can't remember the movie's name, but I can relate to the opening scene. The guy is on an eight-lane highway in bumper-to-bumper traffic and keeps picking the wrong lane. Every time he changes lanes, the lane he just left starts passing him. Investors might be tempted to jump on the hot Consumer Staples trend right now, but like the guy in traffic, they might get passed by the sector they just left.

The Consumer Staples sector is up over 12% year-to-date, ranking third after energy (20%) and materials (15%) among the eleven S&P 500 sectors. It's tempting to overweight one's portfolio in that direction, but it might not be the best strategy.

Stocks in the Consumer Staples sector are known for stability. They sell products essential to daily life, such as food, beverages, toilet paper, and other hygiene items. Another way to describe them is that they are everything stores run out of before a big snowstorm. These products are considered non-cyclical, meaning they stay in demand regardless of economic fluctuations.

We are seeing several sectors benefit as portfolio managers continue to rotate funds out of technology, which had gotten overweighted by strong growth. Consumer Staples have received renewed attention from investors who are looking for defensive and/or income-oriented opportunities, along with Energy (after the Venezuela drama a few weeks ago), Real Estate, and Utilities.

The technical analysis trends for Consumer Staples have improved, making it a tempting tactical buy opportunity. Still, I'm not chasing that trend because they trade at a 10% premium to the rest of the market.

Consumer Staples are known as slow growers. We saw something like this as the COVID shutdowns began when toilet paper and other essentials flew off the shelves, pushing profits up only to fall soon afterwards because, as it turns out, people continue to use the same amount of toilet paper. When consumers have a surplus, they don't buy any more toilet paper until they've used it up. As hot as Consumer Staples look now, earnings reports are expected to show no earnings growth last year. Analysts estimate its 2026 growth at 7%, and the sector is already up nearly twice that currently. (Did I mention people typically use the same amount of toilet paper as they usually do?)

When most stocks are overvalued, as they are now, investors need a sniper-like mentality when seeking opportunities. The bottom line is that I think other non-tech, neutral-rated sectors look more appealing, such as healthcare and industrials. I am staying neutral on Consumer Staples and leaning in on Healthcare and Industrials.

I manage a lot of company retirement plans. Something I see every January is employees looking at their statements and moving their entire account to the mutual fund with the highest return the previous year. When they do this, they are almost always buying at the top, and that fund has only one way to go: down. Just like the guy in the traffic jam, while the intentions are good, it can lead to you missing opportunities had you just stayed in the middle. A diversified portfolio might not be as exciting as others, but it rarely disappoints.

Have a blessed week!

(e) For the purposes of this section, a major event shall have the following characteristics:

(1) Existing lodging accommodations in Wyandotte County or greater Kansas City metropolitan area are deemed by the county administrator to be inadequate to serve the anticipated surge in demand; and

(2) Occurring for less than 90 days.

(f) A major event shall be declared by the county administrator. The beginning date and end date of the major event must be specified in the declaration.

(1) The major event may be declared between two and 52 weeks before the start date of the event in question.

(2) The declaration of a major event shall be published by a memorandum and shall be otherwise posted on the official unified government website. The declaration may be also published and disseminated through other media.

(g) Major event residential rental procedures. The following shall apply only to dwellings that are registered as residential rentals for a major event. All other regulations not in conflict with the regulations in subsection (c) shall remain in effect.

(1) Application submission process.

a. The property owner or representative of the property owner shall submit the major event residential rental application to the division designated by the neighborhood resource center. The application

2. A parcel sharing a driveway with an adjacent parcel owned by a separate property owner.

(2) Rental inspection. A full third-party rental inspection of the dwelling unit shall be completed and submitted with the initial rental application or as a supplement to said application. The home inspector shall be registered in Wyandotte County and shall have an updated occupation tax number. The home inspection shall include an accurate floor plan that identifies all exits for fire safety purposes.

(3) Staff shall inform the applicant of any outstanding deficiencies that must be satisfactorily remedied before a major event rental license is issued.

(4) A completed application, including a full home inspection report, shall be properly submitted. Unified government staff shall issue approval or provide a written rationale for disapproval in accordance with the following:

a. Within 10 business days, for a property with no warnings or administrative citations issued within the past 90 days.

b. Within 3 business days, for a property with at least one warning or administrative citation issued in the past 90 days.

Failure to provide such approval or disapproval shall result in the applicant short-term rental being granted the ability to operate as a major event residential rental, subject to all regulations.

(h) Applicable short-term rental regulations. In addition to other applicable regulations, including, but not limited to, the property maintenance code, the fire code, the building code, and municipal offenses code, the following regulations shall apply to major event residential rentals:

(1) Proof of an active lodging establishment license, if required by state statute.

a. The list of rules must include a prohibition on parties.

b. Contact information for the property owner or their designee.

c. This manual must inform guests that the unified government enforces this policy and must include the contact information to report any violations.

(3) The property owner or applicant must post the following within the primary residence and must make readily available upon request:

a. A copy of the major event residential rental license granting permission to the subject parcel to operate the rental; and,

b. The contact information of the property owner or their designee, in an area of the rented property that is clearly visible to all tenants.

(i) Administrative violation fines. A residential rental operating under this section shall be subject to the following administrative fine standards.

(1) Operation of a short-term or long-term rental without having been issued a rental license, or another violation of section 19-650, is subject to the fine schedule in section 2-652(b).

(2) For a violation of this section, a 'reasonable time' as stated in section 2-653 shall be up to 2 business days in order for the person in violation to initiate the application process and no more than a total of 5 business days to submit a completed application, including a full home inspection.

(j) Revocation. The issuance or payment of an administrative citation does not preempt the revocation of a major event residential rental license at the discretion of the public officer for excessive repeated violations.

Section 4. That said original Section 19-234 of the Code of the Unified Government of Wyandotte County/Kansas City, Kansas, be and are hereby repealed and replaced.

RESOLUTION NO. R-5-26

A RESOLUTION acknowledging upcoming changes in policy and ordinance related to the application process for, the approval of, and the regulations controlling the use of residential short-term rentals.

WHEREAS, Kansas City, Kansas and the surrounding metropolitan area are a thriving area that is attractive to world-class events and entertainment;

WHEREAS, during large, one-time events in Wyandotte County and the metropolitan area, there is a sudden greater demand for housing opportunities for a short period of time and to the extent that the existing hotel and short-term rental pool may not be able to accommodate the influx of out-of-town visitors;

WHEREAS, these one-time, short-term events might require additional flexibility around short-term rentals in order to adequately accommodate all out-of-town visitors;

WHEREAS, all other provisions of Chapter 27, Article VIII shall remain in effect; therefore,

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE GOVERNING BODY OF THE UNIFIED GOVERNMENT OF WYANDOTTE COUNTY/KANSAS CITY, KANSAS:

Section 1. For any Special Event declared by the county administrator, pursuant to Section 19-650, all short-term rentals in Kansas City that wish to operate for only the time period designated by the declared Special Event may operate under an alternative set of procedures and regulations ("Special Event Rental Procedures"). The Special Event Rental Procedures include a shortened application and approval process, reduced application fees, and administrative review by the Business License Division. Said alternative regulations include an exception to the current density maximums set for non-owner-occupied short-term rentals and increased fines associated with administrative citations. Such changes in procedure and regulations shall be codified by amendments to Chapters 2 and 19 of the Unified Government Code of Ordinances.

Section 2. All short-term rentals currently in lawful operation shall continue to operate under the procedures and regulations of the Unified Government Zoning Code, namely Short-term rentals operating under the Special Event Rental Procedures may apply for a short-term rental license under said procedures for a period of time before the start of the Special Event; the time in which a short-term rental application can be submitted under the Special Event Rental Procedures shall be determined by the Unified Government. All lawful operation of a short-term rental under the Special Event Rental Procedures shall only occur during the time designated by the county administrator as the Special Event. No short-term rental operating under the Special Event Rental Procedures shall continue to operate after the end of the Special Event period, unless the property has applied for and been fully approved under Section 27-623.

Section 4. The operation of a short-term rental under the Special Event Rental Procedures shall not be considered in determining if, after the designated Special Event period, an applicant property meets the street block density limit required to operate as short-term rental by special use permit.

Section 5. The effect of this Resolution shall be effective upon the municipal boundaries of the city of Kansas City, Kansas.

Section 6. Upon the passage by the Unified Government Board of Commissioners, this Resolution will become effective upon the approval of Section 19-650 ("Rentals During Special Events") by the Board of Commissioners and shall remain until a superseding resolution or ordinance becomes effective.
