Retail Investors Are Ignoring Risk—and Driving the Market Anyway

Dr. Richard Baker, AIF®, is the CEO and executive wealth advisor at Fervent Wealth Management.

We used to ride ATVs under the bridge where I grew up. My uncles and I would build a racetrack and run them hard. One thing I quickly figured out was to watch the path ahead of me and the other riders who might stop suddenly or crash. Right now, this is a bit of how it feels as a professional investment manager watching these individual investors move the market.

Individual investors, whom analysts call retail investors, are investing as if they were playing video games. There is a shaky truce in the Iran war, but the U.S. continues blockading Iran's ports, and as I write this, Iran has fired on three cargo ships. Yet, looking at the U.S. stock markets, which are at or near all-time highs, you'd think investors have already moved on from the war. This is not normal.

According to the Wall Street Journal, four of the five biggest daily gains in the S&P 500 this year have happened during the Iran war. Interestingly, as I write this, I have had two strangely opposite headline notifications pop up on my computer screen: the first was that Iran attacked three ships, and just a few minutes later, a notification saying the Dow Jones and S&P 500 are both near record highs. Individual investors are seemingly unaffected by daily news.

There are a lot more individual investors trading than at any time in history. Individuals are making nearly 4 million stock trades per day, which is 24% more than a year ago. That is a lot more money moving around the market, directed by less-informed investors. Trading apps have made it so easy to invest that it feels like an ongoing video game that you can play while you work, except there is a chance to "win" some money if things go your way.

Is it because these individual investors are excited about strong stock fundamentals? Maybe, but we have very little of that information right now. Earnings season is going well, but through April 20th, only 49 of the S&P's 500 companies have reported results. The market is going higher before we know how well the other 451 companies are doing.

I think these individual investors are guessing on stocks because they don't want to miss out on a market win. It is like "fear of missing out" for investing. Every professional investment manager, including me, is staying near neutral with a "wait and see" perspective to see where to shift. These individual investors have none of that. They are more "grip it and rip it."

I say that because investors should hold tight to a central holding unless they have an edge, but right now, we have no edge. There is no informational edge because no one knows what Trump or Iran will do. There is no analytical edge because there isn't enough information to analyze.

It seems like a case of herd mentality. Many of these individual investors are in their 30s and early 40s and seem to have little patience. They want to buy the dip so badly that they aren't even waiting for it. They see a negative headline, pull out their phone, and tap "buy" in their stock app. It's just too easy.

I remember how the market changed when smartphones came out. Investors started watching the markets during the day instead of just on the nightly news, and it made many of them freak out, call their financial advisors, and sell on emotions. I had to start paying attention to the knee-jerk reactions of the American people. This feels something like that. Individual investors are doing the same thing, but with much more risk and money. Now they don't have to call an advisor; they can do their own trades. Some win, but most lose badly. This is just another thing financial advisors must account for in making investment decisions.

Once, when we were riding ATVs, I went too fast, and one of my cousins stopped in front of me. I was too close to stop, hit her rear fender, and flipped the four-wheeler. She shouldn't have stopped, and I should have been watching better. I hope investors, both professional and amateur, are paying attention to each other.

Have a blessed week.

Kansas City-area Lawmakers Introduce Bill Designating Quindaro Townsite as National Historic Landmark

Congressman Derek Schmidt (KS-2), Congresswoman Sharice Davids (KS-3), and Congressman Emanuel Cleaver (MO-5) introduced the Quindaro Townsite National Historic Landmark Act to designate the Quindaro Townsite in Kansas City, Kansas, as a National Historic Landmark. The site served as a critical entry point for anti-slavery settlers and a sanctuary for those escaping bondage via the Underground Railroad prior to and during the U.S. Civil War.

National Historic Landmarks are designated through the National Park Service System Advisory Board or an official act of Congress. Last May, the National Historic Landmarks Committee unanimously recommended Quindaro Townsite for designation as a National Historic Landmark, however the administrative process has since stalled. This bill would bypass the administrative process and designate the site by congressional action.

“Quindaro holds an important place in the history of our region and nation,” said Congressman Schmidt, whose district includes the site. “Designating the site as a National Historic Landmark would ensure its legacy is properly preserved and recognized for generations to come. I’m honored to lead this bill and join Representatives Davids and Cleaver in supporting Quindaro.”

“Quindaro was a place of courage, hope, and resilience — a sanctuary for those risking everything for freedom. Designating this site as a National Historic Landmark has been long overdue and would ensure future generations can learn from the sacrifices and triumphs of those who came before us. I’m proud to join Representatives Schmidt and Cleaver in this bipartisan effort to protect our Kansas City history and honor Quindaro’s legacy,” said Congresswoman Davids.

history in eastern Kansas and western Missouri – and its legacy must be preserved for the generations still to come,” said Congressman Cleaver. “By designating Quindaro as a National Historic Landmark, we can ensure the story of those who resided on these grounds lives on through the locals and tourists who visit every day, spreading the inspiring story of Americans who fought to ensure the United States lives up to its highest ideals. I’m proud to introduce this bipartisan legislation with Reps. Schmidt and Davids, and I look forward to working with them to ensure it is passed into law.”

Bill text is available here.

BACKGROUND

Founded in 1857, Quindaro emerged as a beacon for Free-State advocates during the turbulent “Bleeding Kansas” era. Strategically located along the Missouri River, it served as a critical entry point for anti-slavery settlers and a sanctuary for those escaping bondage via the Underground Railroad. The town’s establishment was a collaborative effort among the Wyandot Nation, New England abolitionists, and African American settlers, exemplifying a unique and harmonious multicultural alliance during a period marked by division and conflict.

Beyond its pivotal role in the anti-slavery movement, Quindaro became a nucleus for post-Civil War African American advancement. The establishment of the Quindaro Freedman’s School, later known as Western University, marked a significant milestone as the first Black school west of the Mississippi River. Institutions like Douglass Hospital further underscored the town’s commitment to education and healthcare within the African American community.

Archaeological excavations have unveiled a wealth of artifacts, offering invaluable insights into the daily lives of Quindaro’s diverse inhabitants. The site’s preserved foundations and structures provide a tangible connection to this rich history. Recognized on the National Register of Historic Places since 2002, Quindaro’s significance has been further acknowledged through its designation as a National Commemorative Site in 2019.
